South Carolina Agriculture Department launches Palmettovore Challenge Month

On May 20, South Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Hugh E. Weathers and other state and industry leaders introduced a new Palmettovore movement encouraging South Carolinians to purchase and consume only produce and products grown and processed in South Carolina.

While the name may be new, Palmettovore is a tried and true concept. In other parts of the United States, people who participate in this lifestyle are referred to as Locavores, and their numbers are growing rapidly across the country. While Locavores eat food grown within 100 miles of where they live, Palmettovores have a somewhat more refined geographical preference for Certified SC Grown produce and products from the Palmetto State.

Commissioner Weathers addressed the audience explaining the benefits of eating and buying locally and what it means to be a Palmettovore.

Looking to Celebrate? June is your Month!

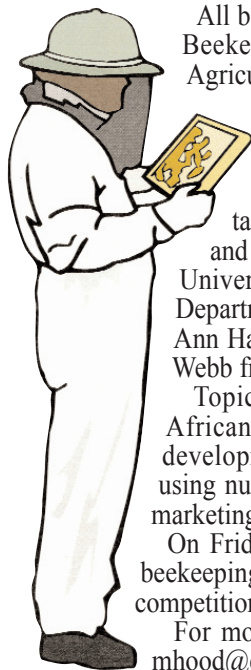

June is a busy month for celebrations - end of school, trips to the beach, weddings . . . It's certainly busy in agriculture as well - June is National Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Month, June is Beef Month, June is Dairy Month, and now this year it's Palmettovore Challenge Month. Take your pick of these and, one way or another; you'll end up with something tasty.

Summer officially begins June 21st, Father's Day. I think the 'official summer eating season' starts around Memorial Day when South Carolina's produce harvest season gets into full swing. Even though we are fortunate to have some of our local produce year round, the summer season is the best time for finding a full basket load of our locally grown fruits and vegetables. You can find everything from South Carolina peaches and melons to asparagus and zucchini almost anywhere you shop.

Father's Day weekend is a great time to enjoy the pool, lake, beach, or just the backyard with family and friends. Usually there's some good grilling going on - maybe a good cut of beef coming from a South Carolina beef farmer. When it's time for dessert, my family likes home-made ice cream with fresh peaches. Nothing's better than a tasty, fresh-from-the-orchard South Carolina peach - especially when churned into ice cream.

South Carolina Beekeepers Summer Meeting

All beekeepers or anyone interested in beekeeping is invited to attend the South Carolina Beekeepers Association (SCBA) summer meeting on July 16-18, 2009 in the Poole Agricultural Center Auditorium at Clemson University, Clemson, SC.

Registration will begin at noon on Thursday, July 16 and adjournment is scheduled to end at noon on Saturday, July 18. The registration fee is $10 for association members ($15 family) and $15 for nonmembers.

The meeting will include a one-day intermediate level beekeeping short course taught by Mike Hood and other instructors. Featured speakers for the general sessions and workshops on Friday and Saturday include: Steve Sheppard from Washington State University; Jamie Ellis from the University of Florida; Amanda Ellis from the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services; Gordon Wardell from Tucson, Arizona; Ann Harmon from Flint Hill, Virginia; Reg Wilbanks from Claxton, Georgia; and Virginia Webb from Clarksville, Georgia.

Topics to be covered include: varroa mite control; powdered sugar and small-cell; Africanized honey bees in Florida; colony collapse disorder in the US and globally; development of the Tucson honey bee diet; effects of pests on honey bee pollination; using nucs in your operation; honey bee nutrition and diet supplements; green beekeeping; marketing bee products; and other beekeeping matters.

On Friday afternoon, workshops will be held for beekeepers to discuss topics relative to beekeeping with a variety of speakers. In addition to other activities, a honey and beeswax competition will be held during the meeting.

For more information, contact Mike Hood, Executive Secretary, SCBA, 864-656-0346, mhood@clemson.edu or visit www.scstatebeekeepers.org.

Park for the South Carolina Equine Center Approved

The SC Equine Promotion Foundation, headquartered in Camden, has been given final approval by Kershaw County to build and operate a first class equine center in the area.

The site for the first phase of the SC Equine Center is the former Westfall Arena located at Exit 101 of I20 near Camden. The Foundation is also negotiating for additional property in order to offer a state-of-the-art complex for all disciplines and hopes to have facilities rivaling the best horse parks situated in other states. Funds for future improvements will be raised by the Foundation.

The project is supported by SC Parks, Recreation and Tourism, City and County Councils, the legislative Delegation, the Economic Development Board, the South Carolina Electrical Cooperatives and many private citizens who have invested and given expertise.

The South Carolina Equine Promotion Foundation’s mission is to promote all equine-related sports and education and to provide sustainable economic growth in the State of South Carolina through the rich heritage and tradition of South Carolina’s equine industry.

Third Annual Upstate Farm Tour Highlights 19 Sustainable Farms

The Carolina Farm Stewardship Association (CFSA) announces its third annual Upstate Farm Tour to take place the weekend of May 30 - 31, 2009. The tour takes place from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. both days and highlights 19 sustainable farms - those using organic or ecological growing practices.

The farms are located all around the Upstate, including Anderson, Oconee, Pickens, Greenville, Laurens, and Spartanburg counties. The tour is a wonderful opportunity for Upstate families to visit local farms that use ecological methods. The tour is co-sponsored by Whole Foods.

CFSA Executive Director, Roland McReynolds commented, "Parents want their children to see where their food comes from. Kids love seeing the animals."

On the farm tour, families see local farms in action and hear stories from farmers about how they are working the land sustainably. Children can meet local cows, pigs, chickens, goats, sheep, and even alpacas. Families learn how organic farms reduce water pollution and use of pesticides.

Over half of the farms feature animals. "Pasture-raised meats are growing rapidly in popularity due to their superior nutrition, humane treatment and environmental quality," says McReynolds. "We are fortunate in the Upstate to have so many farms providing sustainably-grown meats."

This year the tour also features three dairies, honey producers, and a variety of fruit and vegetable growers, including a farm endeavoring to bring the chestnut tree back to America.

To take the tour, get a map and buy entrance buttons online at www.carolinafarmstewards.org or at Whole Foods stores or at the following Upstate locations: Anderson County Farmer's Market (Anderson); Hub City Farmer's Market (Spartanburg); Upstate Farmer's Alliance (Pauline); Bee Well Honey & Natural Market (Pickens); Upstate Food Co-Op (Six Mile); The Market at Keowee Towne (Salem). The tour costs $25 in advance or $10 per farm.

Entrance buttons may also be purchased at every farm on tour days for $30. Proceeds support the work of CFSA.

For more information contact Diana Vossbrinck, Regional Coordinator, 864-517-4720 or diana@carolinafarmstewards.org.

State Dairy Field Day

The State Dairy Field Day will be held on Wednesday, June 17, 2009, 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. at Sunny Day Farm, 1031 Dublin Road, Chester, SC.

The Dairy Field Day will be hosted by Herbert, Betty, Herby and Amanda Lutz of Sunny Day Farm & Her-Man Jerseys, the SC Jersey Cattle Association, and Clemson University Extension Service

The Field Day will feature special presentations on Feeding Strategies, Mycotoxins, Herd Health and Calf & Heifer Management. Participants will be able to tour the farm and view the cows and facilities.

Dr. Geof Smith, Associate Professor, N.C. State College of Veterinary Medicine, will be the keynote speaker. His topic will be Raising Healthy Dairy Calves, emphasizing Persistently Infected (PI) Bovine Virus Diarrhea (BVD) and how calves and a herd can be infected.

A Junior Dairyman's Contest consisting of equipment and feed i.d. will be held along with dairy trivia and judging classes. Awards will be given to the high individuals.

A barbeque lunch and dairy products will be provided by Sandy Run Farm and Hickory Hill Milk.

Pre-register for the State Dairy Field Day by contacting Phil Perry, 864-445-8117, Ext.115, prperry@clemson.edu or Tina Horn at 803-944-2089, email thorn@clemson.edu by Friday, June 12.

Looking to Celebrate?

You can find those homegrown peaches and other fresh fruits and vegetables at the three state farmers markets in Columbia, Florence, and Greenville. Your neighborhood supermarket or local roadside market or community farmers market will also have South Carolina produce this summer season. When you're out to shop, look for our Certified SC Grown logo. If you don't see it, ask for it! If you don't see it the next time, call us at the Department to let us know.

And, if you're lucky enough to be a member of a CSA farm (Community Supported Agriculture) like Blanche and me, you'll be getting a wide variety of seasonal produce - like squash, cucumbers, butter beans, string beans - throughout the harvest season. Can't beat local fresh, nutritious produce this time of the year! Blanche says our friends who are also members are having to learn some new cooking tricks with raw vegetables.

June is recognized as Beef Month and also as Dairy Month. That gives us two more opportunities to show our support for agribusiness - for dairy and beef producers and their families who work hard every day, 24-7, to provide fresh, wholesome milk and beef products. I am pleased that more of our dairy farmers are bottling and branding their own milk and finding success around South Carolina. Some beef farmers are doing the same with their operations. This is very exciting.

In addition to all the other celebrations going on in June, we've added one more song to our repertoire - Palmettovore Challenge Month. In the last Market Bulletin, we told you that a Palmettovore strives to eat foods grown or produced in season in the Palmetto State. You heard good reasons - health, environmental, and economic - to do the Palmettovore thing.

The South Carolina General Assembly recently offered their support in promoting the Palmettovore movement by passing a resolution proclaiming June Palmettovore Challenge month. The challenge is to eat the Palmettovore way in support of the Certified South Carolina Grown and Fresh on the Menu programs.

The purposes of all the celebrations in June are to promote agribusiness industry and grow it so it can grow South Carolina. Agribusiness is generating positive returns on investment, creating jobs, and spurring rural development. Through the ongoing Certified SC Grown program, the Department of Agriculture is promoting the benefits of buying locally-grown foods that are healthier, better tasting and environmentally-friendly while supporting the local economy.

Celebrate them all - National Fruit and Vegetable Month, Beef Month, Dairy Month, and Palmettovore Challenge Month with your family throughout the month of June - or any month of the year. Whether the slogan is 'Fruits and Veggies - More Matters,' 'Beef - it's what's for dinner' or 'Got Milk,' the challenge is to celebrate the Palmettovore way.

For a list of all of the produce and products grown or processed in South Carolina and when they are available, visit CertifiedSCGrown.com.

Hugh E. Weathers, Commissioner

Palmettovore

"Eating the Palmettovore way is fresher and healthier, reduces our carbon footprint since food travels a shorter distance, and helps support our local farmers, which contributes to South Carolina's agribusiness industry and overall economy," Weathers said. "As the Palmettovore movement grows, it will support sustainable, local food production, processing and distribution networks that reach supermarkets and restaurants statewide."

Certified SC Grown fruits and vegetables were on site carrying signs with slogans such as "Home Grown and Proud" and "Eat Local, Be A Palmettovore".

The South Carolina General Assembly also offered their support in promoting the Palmettovore movement by passing a resolution proclaiming June 'Palmettovore Challenge' month. SC House Representative Joan Brady, (Rep- District 78), resolution sponsor, read the proclamation aloud. During June, South Carolinians are challenged to eat the Palmettovore way and support the South Carolina Department of Agriculture's Certified SC Grown and Fresh on the Menu programs.

"This resolution represents the legislature's support for the SCDA's programs and its latest Palmettovore movement, which will hopefully increase awareness for buying and consuming locally grown," said Representative Brady. As Chair of the Insurance Subcommittee for the Labor, Commerce and Industry Committee, Brady said she especially understands the important economic impact of Palmettovore Challenge month. "Taking the Palmettovore challenge will allow South Carolinians to support our state's number one industry of agribusiness and our overall economy."

During the kick-off event, Steven Cook, owner of Saluda's restaurant in Columbia, SC, discussed how his restaurant is participating in the Palmettovore movement as a member of SCDA's Fresh on the Menu program. Fresh on the Menu restaurants incorporate at least 25 percent of Certified SC Grown produce and products into their menu items when in season. Launched in 2008, there are now more than 200 Fresh on the Menu restaurants across the state.

"As a Fresh on the Menu restaurant, we feel that we are contributing to the Palmettovore movement and demonstrating to our customers that they can trust that what they are enjoying is fresher, tastier and grown in South Carolina," said Cook. "We hope that you will dine at Saluda's and all Fresh on the Menu restaurants across the state in your efforts to become a Palmettovore and support Certified SC Grown."

Palmettovore Challenge month began June 1. For more information about how to become a Palmettovore, please go to www.palmettovore.org.

When Submitting ads online, fax or by mail . . .

A complete name, address including Zip Code, and phone number with Area Code and county listing is required for each ad submitted.

The Market Bulletin publishes only one advertisement per family per category. A maximum of four advertisements per person will be published per issue.

Miss Lexington County Peach, Ellen Neely of Lexington, presents a basket of Lexington County peaches to South Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Hugh Weathers on May 26. Neely, a nursing major at USC, will compete in the Miss South Carolina pageant in Spartanburg on July 4.

Beef, it's what's on the grill this Father's Day

Hugh Weathers, South Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture, is asking South Carolinians to celebrate Father's Day with beef this year. Father's Day is June 21, and a great time to fire up the grill and spend time with Dad.

IT'S WHAT'S FOR DINNER®

June is Beef Month here in South Carolina and in the middle of the peak grilling season which runs from May to September.

"Grilling out has always been a passion of a lot of South Carolinians, and I cannot think of a better way to celebrate Father's Day than with a steak or burger off the grill," Commissioner Weathers said.

James Sease, a beef producer from Ehrhardt and chairman of the South Carolina Beef Board, said South Carolina beef producers are committed to providing wholesome, safe and delicious beef for consumers throughout the world. Beef is also the most preferred source of protein, and the number one protein served in restaurants.

Lean beef is also a naturally rich source of nine essential nutrients, including protein, zinc, vitamin B12, selenium, phosphorous, niacin, vitamin B6, iron and riboflavin. Let your local beef producers know they are appreciated by enjoying a juicy hamburger or a thick steak this Father's Day.

Beef Kabobs With Parmesan Orzo

- 1 pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1 inch thick
- 2 red or yellow bell peppers, cut into 1 inch pieces
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried basil
- 1 tablespoon prepared Italian dressing
- 2 large cloves garlic, minced

Parmesan Orzo

- 1 cup uncooked orzo pasta, cooked
- 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped fresh basil or parsley
- 2 tablespoons shredded Parmesan cheese
- 2 teaspoons olive oil

Soak eight 8-inch bamboo skewers in water 10 minutes. Cut beef steak into 1-1/4-inch pieces. Toss beef and bell peppers with 1 tablespoon basil, dressing and garlic in large bowl. Alternately thread beef and peppers onto skewers.

Toss orzo ingredients in medium bowl; keep warm. Place kabobs on grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill, uncovered, about 8 to 10 minutes for medium rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally. Serve with orzo. Makes 4 servings.
